

50.26.03. Karnak Temple Combination

Egypt's largest temple complex is Karnak, not far from the Valley of the Kings. This was the inspiration behind our play combination of the same name. Young "archaeologists" are welcomed at the temple entrance by four sphinx rockers. The rockers lead the way to the entrance area. A four-metre decorative and climbable obelisk with milled hieroglyphs and climbing grips stands at the heart of the complex. Around it, various play platforms – connected to each other by bridges – guarantee plenty of exciting climbing.
